BREIF:

COPE: What is it?

A community dedicated to improving the mental health of today's youngsters.

A student-led initiative raises awareness about mental health issues while also having a beneficial influence on young people.

Mental Health – what is it?

The capacity to overcome obstacles that need attitude and EQ

Vision: A stigma-free world

Mission: Raising awareness, promoting mental health, and enhancing the lives of foster children

This event “Spotlight Saga” was conducted in hopes of giving more awareness to Mental Health in a fun and relaxing event.

The movie chosen was “Perks of Being a Wallflower”

Synopsis:

This movie released in 2012, directed by Stephan Chbosky. It’s the story of a guy, Charlie who is in his first year of high school, trying to navigate his life. He is what people call a “Wallflower”. He befriends his seniors and together, they navigate their lives.

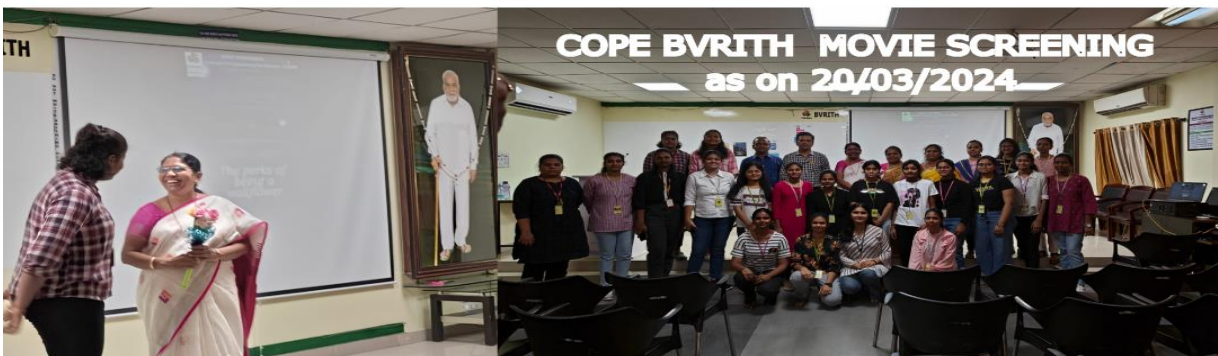

The Idea behind picking this movie:

The idea was to pick a movie which is fun filled and informative about mental health disorders like PTSD. This movie shows the struggle of Charlie and his life. He is diagnosed with clinical depression. Unknown to us is the fact that he shows signs of undiagnosed PTSD symptoms throughout the movie. It is the last 15 minutes of the movie where we realize what truly happened to him. It is our realization of the true incidents which make us realize why he was behaving the way. The movie also touches on topics like abuse, self-harm, LGBTQ+. The movie was a very funny and demonstrated a light hearted way to touch these issues. It was a perfect blend of seriousness and fun. The most loved character is Charlie, the main protagonist himself. He undergoes a lot of hardships and abuse, yet he has the strength and courage to bounce back by helping himself and going to therapy.

Goals of the movie:

- Increase awareness of disorders like clinical depression and PTSD
- A fun filled experience to reduce stress
- Importance of friends and reaching out
- Therapy is normal and necessary if and when suffering
